

Cross-module messaging substrate

Three message surfaces share one real-time substrate; direct messages can carry the context of the module they came from.

